ABC Landline

Tom and Sarah appeared on Landline a couple of weeks ago talking about the new recyclable pine/poly posts being installed in the St Ethels Vineyard at Great Western. A funny moment – to promote their safety, a professional fencer was seen licking the posts, it's unlikely to catch on! In the photo Ben Kumnick and Steve Costigan hard at work on Grampians Estate's modern tractor.

New Frost Fan

The St Ethels Vineyard at Great Western is in a very frost-prone area. An automatic frost fan has been installed, complete with a 160 horsepower Perkins diesel motor, weather station and automatic controls. It kicks in when the temp drops to 1°C and turns off at 2°C in the morning. With bud burst happening, it has already kicked in twice, the first being Grand Final night at 11pm when the temperature of both Bulldogs supporters and the Great Western air dropped below 1°C. During the night the temp dropped to -3.3°C. The fan went for nine hours.

Pruning all done

20 acres pruned, all done. Tom, John Lucas (pictured) and Ian Blackie (pictured) were the mainstays but supported in cameo performances by Ian MacDonald, Sarah, the McLoughlins, Don Rowe and Kyra (Cellar Door Manager), some of whom required extra sustenance late into the evening. Following pruning the cuttings are mulched with a flail mower.

Letter from Birmingham

'I was fed up with being burglarized and robbed every other day in my neighbourhood. The alarm system was no use so I tore it out and deregistered from our ineffective local Neighbourhood Watch... Instead, I've planted a Taliban flag in each corner of my front garden. Now, the city police, the National Security Bureau, Scotland Yard, MI-5, MI-6, the CIA and every other intelligence service in Europe are all keeping watch on my house 24 x 7 x 365... I'm followed to and from work every day and my wife too when she goes out shopping. So no one bothers us at all... I've never felt safer... All thanks to the Taliban!'
